Woodhull Gas Line Completed By Fast Work on Dark Night

Unwilling to wait slow process of negotiation for right of way under Central tracks gas company lays line under cover of darkness—Nine wells drilling or in prospect in Woodhull field.

North Penn workmen have finally finished their line to the Herrington well after a dramatic episode which recalls tales of the heroic taming of the old West. The gas company was unable to negotiate a right of way with the New York Central railroad which has a spur line running up the Cowanesque Valley. The line was laid up to the railroad property from both directions, but no gas could be taken from the Woodhull field until the last link was connected. Grown restless over tedious formalties and delays which had dragged out for weeks the pipe line men decided to act first and talk afterwards.

Consequently a gang of some 20 men were taken to the missing link at midnight recently and the dirt began to fly. A hole was burrowed under the railroad tracks, pipe was set in place and the ends welded to the two floating lines connecting the well to the main gas line. By the time daylight dawned in the east the dirt had been covered over the link and the gas company had completed its pipe line, relying on the old adage that "possession is nine points of the law".

Operations in the Woodhull gas field develop farther each day as several wells are going steadily down and new locations add to the prospective limits of the structure. There are now nine wells drilled, drilling or located ready for the beginning of work.

Lycoming Gas Company's well on the Earl Calkins farm was down to 1,600 feet Tuesday night, with work progressing well in an eight inch hole. The Acme drilling Company is putting down the Calkins which promises to be the second well finished in the field.

Richard Atwater is spudded to a little more than 200 feet on Hanley and Bird's well on the Moyer farm. Good progress has been reported on the Becker well located between Lycoming's operation and the Herrington discovery well. Sylvania has dug a cellar for its well on the Hattie Hand farm located southwest of the Lycoming well.

Other operations that are starting include the completion of the rig on the Ackerman farm and a location by Larkin of Buffalo on the Bates village lot. Cabot is now erecting the rig for his well on the Mrs. Carrie B. Calkins farm.

Francis Edwards Will Conduct Antique Shop

[illegible] Francis Edwards, Front street, [illegible] bought the antique and furni[illegible] business of A. W. Maltby in the [illegible]n block, Main street. Mr. Edwards will be assiste[illegible] Mrs. Edwards, who has been interested in antiques for several years. In addition to the antique furniture they will deal in used and rebuilt furniture, both buying and selling. Furniture will also be refinished in period style.

Newman Heads Legion Housing Committee

Commander Clare Chart of the Williams-Greengrass Post American Legion has appointed William E. Newman as chairman of the housing committee for Addison Legionnaires for the national convention. This convention will be held in New York September 20 to 23. Mr. Newman will have the convention registration blanks which will be necessary to secure proper credentials, badges, official guide book and free tickets to public functions offered by the New York committee.

Holiday Mishaps Few Here Compared To National Rate

There were no fireworks casualties in Addison as far as can be learned from a survey of the doctors here made Tuesday morning. One little girl was slightly burned and was treated for minor injuries but was quickly cured and went back to her play. This mishap was Saturday night.

And there were no motor accidents of major importance in the vicinity as doctors were not called upon to care for motor accident victims as were many doctors in other communities.

There were 391 deaths reported in the 44 eastern states of the United States. Of these 89 were killed by fireworks and 207 by motor cars and the balance by drowning. These deaths were reported during the 72 hours of the holiday week-end.

Official Report States CCC Boys Injuries Slight

Official report of the CCC enrollees injured near Ithaca last week when they were being taken to Oxford reveals that the boys were not as seriously injured as was at first reported. Eight of the ten mentioned in last week's issue of this paper, were released from the hospital the day of their entry and Nagle and Hagen were released the following day. They all have minor cuts and bruises.

Lt. Donaldson, convoy director of the party, issued instructions to the enrollees before leaving Addison, advising them to sit in the trucks and remain seated. It was nonobservance of these instructions which led to the boys being injured. Local friends of the boys will be pleased to know the first report printed last week was not as serious as expected.

Crane Suggests Delegate Be Chosen by Committee

Attorney Charles Crane, who is a candidate for the New York State Constitutional Convention to be held in Albany next year, has announced his candidacy through the columns of this paper and seeks the support of the Republican voters of Steuben, Yates and Ontario counties. It has [illegible] the custom to elect a repre[illegible]e of each of these counties [illegible]strict to give representation [illegible]

[illegible] statement [illegible]nesday [illegible]ning Mr. Crane said, "The matter of an agreement relative to one candidate to represent Steuben Steuben County is being held in abeyance. A meeting was to be held of Republican leaders to choose the man of the three in the race at the present time. I offered to leave the matter in the hands of the Judicial Committee of the Steuben County Republican Committee, which is composed of Supreme Court Justices William W. Clark, Edwin C. Smith, John C. Wheeler and County Judge Edwin S. Brown and to this committee should be added former United States Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton and Surrogate Judge George Pratt".

The other candidates in the field are Benjamin Dewitt and Clyde Shults, both of Hornell.

New Face for North Wall of Bank Building

The wood wall on the north end of the addition of the Addison National bank is getting a new face. Workmen erected a scaffolding during the past week and began work Tuesday of putting a coating of plastic composition on the wall. This will not only add to the appearance of the wall, but will give added warmth to the interior of the building. The wall faces the bridge and the unfinished woodwork was exposed to the elements since the building of the addition.

TOMPKINS—LOVELL

Miss Ila Lovell of Painted Post, daughter of Mrs. Olive Wilhelm of Campbell, and Spencer Tompkins, son of George J. Tompkins of Addison, were united in marriage last Wednesday evening at 8:30 P. M. at the Baptist parsonage by the Rev. K. E. Arnold. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Tompkins.

New Mat Service Secured for Advertisers

Advertisers in the columns of this paper are asked to make use of a new mat service. This service has been secured at expense to the publishers for the convenience of the advertisers. There will be additions to the service each month so that seasonal articles in the manner of the month may be advertised with ample pictures.

Our advertising department will be pleased to cooperate with the advertisers relative to the use of these mats which have pictures of merchandise from motor cars and houses to the smallest knickknack in grocery and mercantile stores.

Willard Gardner Dies Suddenly

Willard Wilmot Gardner, 83, died suddenly early Wednesday morning, July 7, 1937, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Youngs, Painted Post. He made his home on Orr Hill near Addison but was visiting his daughter at the time of his death. Complications and old age are given as the causes of his death.

Mr. Gardner was born June 7, 1854 a son of the late Henry and Angeline Bort Gardner. His family lived in Hoboken, N. J., at the time of his birth. They left there shortly after for Huntington, L. I., and lived there until he was 14 when they moved to Addison. He has since made his home here.

Mr. Gardner was a carpenter by trade and was well known in Addison and vicinity for his work. His retirement from that occupation occurred only a few years ago. He worked for himself throughout most of that time and his handiwork is seen in many of the homes in this vicinity.

In religion he was a Methodist and attended the Orr Hill Church. In addition to the daughter above mentioned he leaves a daughter Mrs. Beldon Ackerson, Orr Hill, with whom he lived and also four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home with the Rev. Eugene Cole and the Rev. Garland G. Lacey officiating. [illegible]ment will be made in [illegible]

Addison Holiday Traffic Shows an Increase

The motor traffic through Addison and along Route 17 reached proportions not seen in several years over the week-end. The cars came from nearly every state in the Union from Maine to California. The greatest number seemed to come from Ohio and Connecticut with a good sprinkling of Michigan, New Jersey and Florida plates.

With all the traffic on the highways, there did not seem to be much congestion. Traffic moves faster than five years ago and more efficient methods of handling this traffic speeds cars along their way.

The usual number of back seat drivers were heard. Some of the real drivers objected to the remarks from their auxiliary drivers and were quite loud in their objections while others followed the advice given in the manner of Mr. Meek.

An increased number of girl and women drivers was noted. By this is meant, girl and women drivers unaccompanied by men. This is a change from a decade ago when a woman was afraid to drive outside of the county limits alone. And would not dare to owing to tire or motor trouble. Modern production and manufacturing methods have eliminated a great deal of the work in operating a car.

Kidnap Scare In Addison Monday A.M.

Addison had a kid[illegible]pping scare Monday morning. T[illegible] men from Westfield, Pa., stop[illegible]d at a local store to purchase s[illegible]e merchandise for a picnic. Th[illegible] left a three year old girl appare[illegible]ly locked in the car so she could not fall out. They returned in a few minutes and the child was gone. A thorough search of all Main Street stores, alleys, and houses failed to reveal the child.

It was feared she might have wandered to the river and fallen in or to the Tuscarora creek. The search continued for half an hour and the child was finally discovered near the bridge over the Canisteo river.

Wednesday Closing Next Week—Stores Shut 12:30

The Wednesday afternoon closing did not get under way here June 30 as was originally planned. In fact it did not get under way yesterday afternoon either. Several of the merchants felt that owing to the holiday coming Monday it would not be right to close Wednesday too. The only store which closed according to the signed agreement was the Addison GLF Service store on East Front street.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

"Of long suffering and great goodness" are editors and publishers of the average weekly newspaper. Whatever their sins of omission and commission, frailities, faults, peculiarities and indiosyncracies, is is a safe gamble that compensatively for what they suffer in abuse in this life, they are going to be dead and in Heaven at least six months before the Devil "gets hep" to their having departed.

The average newspaper in a rural village gives columns of its space in furtherance of publicity and in exploitation of propaganda designed for one or another particular class. Weekly, such newspapers go far beyond every standard of journalistic ethics and tolerance in giving of its space to such publicity in extravagant measure. Picnics, entertainments, public suppers, dancing parties, all get a "free ride". And then there are many organizations, social, patriotic, religious, educational and goodness knows what else, all of which seek the aid of the newspaper.

The editor and his staff, with patches on their pants, with even little salt on their bread, ever "come smiling through" in meeting this unsatiable, never-ending crave for publicity. The editor gives of his space in his newspaper, he skirmishes God knows only how hard to meet a payroll, to pay rent, paper bills and other overhead, and voices no complaint. He gladly, willingly serves the interest of the public, but he would be reasonably appreciated.

But patience finally grows thin, it ceases to be a virtue, when year after year and week after week a newspaper willingly devotes itself in furtherance of the activities and interests of organizations and individuals and then is "made the goat". And by this we mean when individuals and organizations seek and accept free publicity in a newspaper and then turn face about and place paid advertising in other publications which are negligible in furtherance of publicity.

It is time that there was a change; that organizations and individuals learn to be appreciative of newspaper support and with the newspaper reasonably "play ball". And I say this calmly, dispassionately, without rancour or fever. It is plain business sense. What say you? Think it over.

Mrs. Wallace Moore Complimented Guest

Mrs. Elmer Hackett entertained at her home Friday evening with Mrs. Wallace Moore as complimented guest. A social evening was enjoyed after which refreshments were served.

The guests were: Miss Grace Moore, Mrs. Robert Miller, Miss Aldema Herrington, Mrs. Minnie Cilley, Mrs. Merwin Fuller, Mrs. Leon Quick, Mrs. Curtis Oakley, Mrs. Curry Davis, and Mrs. Myron Resue of Elkland, the guest of honor Mrs. Wallace Moore and son Warren and the hostess, Mrs. Hackett.

Elkland Tannery Labor Dispute Still Unsettled

The situation remains tense in the CIO-Elkland Leather Workers' strife in Elkland, just over the border. For the past several weeks organizers for the CIO have been in Elkland but have met with little success in signers. Last week employes of the tannery gave three of the organizers 20 minutes to leave town. The trio went to Elmira and from there preferred charges with the National Labor Relations Board that the tannery officials were preventing laborers from joining the CIO.

Workers numbering 800 went back to work last week after two days of tenseness. Everything was peaceful until Tuesday morning when wives of some of the strikers and the CIO sympathizers harassed the workers with sticks and stones as the workers entered the tannery.

Six arrests were made including two from Freeman, in this county. Those arrested were Harold Butler and Elwin Wright who are held in bail bonds of $5,000 each. The bail is high owing to the men being nonstate residents. Harry B. Hayden, Everett, Mass., CIO organizer was arrested Tuesday on charge of inciting to riot and he was released on a $1,000 bail bond. Wright is facing a New York charge of assaulting Ray Brown of Liberty Pole, a worker in the Elkland tannery. He posted $500 bail in that charge and will appear for a hearing July 14. Four men from Elkland were also arrested in conjunction with the riot and are in Wellsboro jail.

Wednesday morning the workers gathered in the main street of the village and marched to work. Over 200 strikers and their wives stood quietly by while the workers marchto work through the picket lines. Tuesday night 800 plant workers met in the high school to form an organization to bargain with the employers under the Wagner Labor Act.

Baptist Herald of 1889 Brought To Light

Have you read the Baptist Herald? Some of the young people of the community will not remember this publication which made its appearance first in 1889 as a publication of activities of the Baptist Church. The sheet was a four-page publication with printed pages six by eight inches.

A copy of Saturday, August 17, 1889 was recently unearthed by Fred Sutliff. There are no copies on file in the Baptist Church or parsonage. The Rev. G. N. Gates was the pastor of the church and editor of the Herald.

The first page contains an editorial "Lord, Make Me Useful". The editorial starts out with the question "Have you ever offered that prayer?" It speaks of the "luxury of doing good". The quotations were borrowed from the Georgetown New York Baptist News.

Page two contains an editorial by the pastor on "The Tired Body" and a series of local items in which these are found, "If your shears are dull take them to J. S. Frost and have them put in order". The Methodist Sunday school picnic took place Thursday at Goodhue Lake".

One column is devoted to the death of Mrs. William B. Hepworth, who was killed while crossing the track near the station by a railroad train. Hymns and topics and a column of personals made up page three with advertisements for W. O. Feenaughty, Cohn and E. M. Welles. Among the personals were these: "Mrs. G. I. True has been on the sick list a few days, Rev. Searles and family returned from Silver Lake Thursday".

The last page of the Herald contained advertisements only. These were for: E. Allen, fresh and salt meats; P. C. Daniels, general insurance; D. J. Crittenden, M. D.; Sackett & Taber, fly paper, insect powder and poison fly paper; Hub Clothing Company; W. H. LaCoste & Co., dry goods and notions; Paxton & True, boots, shoes, groceries and crockery; Edwin Chart, fresh and salt meats and fish; Hill & Webb, dealers in groceries and provisions, boots, shoes, etc.; MacDowell and Darrin, furniture dealers and undertakers".

Miss Louise S. Miller returned home Friday from Framingham, Mass., where she has been employed for several months.

Successful Annual Report Given At Addison Methodist Conference

Addison charge has prosperous year under the Rev. Garland G. Lacey—He is granted salary increase—The Rev. Dr. Searles presides at session—Reports of church organizations show membership increase.

Parishioners of the Addison Methodist Episcopal Church voted the Rev. Garland G. Lacey an increase in salary of $100 and asked him to remain here as pastor. He will remain. This with the financial reports and election of officers for the coming year comprised the main items of business at the fourth quarterly conference of the Addison charge held here Friday night. The Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Searles, superintendent of the district, presided.

Dr. Searles opened the meeting with a prayer and then gave a short talk on the Silver Lake summer school and the "Value of Christian Education." He also commented favorably on the work of the Addison charge.

The pastor the Rev. Lacey presented his annual report on the activities of the parish. The report reads as follows:

"During the nine months of our stay on the Addison charge and serving the Addison, Rathbone and Orr Hill churches, Mrs. Lacey and myself have been treated with extreme kindness, courtesy and hospitality; and our debt of gratitude to the people of the entire charge is very great. We take this opportunity for thanking all for what they have so willingly and so graciously done for the church and for us personally.

"The Sunday congregations at Addison during the year have ranged from about 65 to 110 in number; at Rathbone the numbers at the Sunday services have ranged from about 23 to 75; at Orr Hill from 3 to 19. The choirs at Addison and at Rathbone have added richly to the services. At Addison the ushers have been very active and very faithful. Bulletins and pamphlets have been distributed each week and in that way the whole congregation have been kept in touch with the news of the church doings and choice selections of religious literature.

"The Addison church school attendance numbers from around 50 to 75 with Mr. Roy Omelion as superintendent. The Rathbone Sunday school attendance numbers from about 15 to 25 with Harold Widger as the superintendent. This school had its picnic at the Corning park on Wednesday, June 30. No school has been held at Orr Hill.

"In all three churches there is an active and energetic Ladies Aid Society, and through their efforts and generosity considerable funds have been raised for current bud-

DEATH ON THE SHOULDERS

In these days when the modern automobile has become as dreadsome a messenger of death as the plagues which periodically visited mediaeval Europe, the subject of highway safety cannot be too highly stressed nor too frequently mentioned in the public press. "Death takes the wheel" every hour of every day in this great country, and the evidence is portrayed in our newspapers and revealed on many a twist of the road.

Last week the writer drove from Addison to the vicinity of Boston and return, and the question of death on the highway was brought forcibly to mind. The reminder was a sharp grade with a reverse curve at the bottom where a little group of men stood at attention, or diverted traffic from the west to the left side of the road. On the other side of the highway a glaring white tarpaulin was stretched, hiding, yet revealing to the passing eye that a lifeless form lay on the spot where a few moments before a man had been walking. Yes, death had been stalking the road again. It may be the hit-and-run driver physically grasping the wheel—it may be King Alcohol steering the car—it may be the demon of speed over-exhilarating the senses. It may be one of a thousand mechanical failures, or human mistakes that reap this ever-mounting harvest of forfeited lives.

The New York Highway Department has made many laudable attempts to warn the public through the press, of the dangers of excessive speed and careless driving which is costing us so dearly in sacrificed lives. But after driving the roads of this state from north to south and from east to west for thousands of mi[illegible] the past year and many pr[illegible] the writer of this co[illegible] Highway Department [illegible] take a few lessons in accident prevention from the motorists who drive our state roads.

There is not room in the space of this column to point out more than one serious fault in our roads, and obliged to pick a single failure that is repeated over and over and over, up and down the state we believe that bad shoulders are most noteworthy. Wherever one drives on New York roads, almost without exception he will find the upkeep of the shoulders has been shamefully neglected. This is especially true of concrete roads where the dirt shoulders are allowed to wear away leaving drop-offs of from three to six inches, where ragged edges sometimes extend for many rods. Such conditions are pregnant with possibilities for accidents. One may be driving along on a rainy night when a great truck forces him off the hard surface—in coming back on the rear wheel fails to climb the bad shoulder—the car goes into a skid to crash into another machine—and another accident is born. And the dead driver cannot explain his life was forfeited through neglect of the Highway Department to keep the shoulders of our state roads in safe condition for driving.

No, we have never been killed through such an accident. But we have been crowded off the roads under similar conditions and our heart has jumped into our throat at what might have happened if we had been hitting 60 or 70 an hour—like that fellow who just whizzed by. After seeing thousands of miles of New York roads with badly neglected shoulders we sometimes wonder why there are so few accidents.

This condition was brought more forcibly to mind by the writer's trip last week. Bad edges to the Massachusetts state line. Then well-kept roads with perfect shoulders over the Berkshires and on through Springfield to Boston. The same conditions back over another route up Jacob's Ladder where there was never a broken, sunken edge to the New York line. Over in the home state and in less than a half mile one strikes the same old conditions — ragged edges — sunken shoulders—pitfalls to death.

We wonder how the officials of the New York Highway Department can ride up and down our roads without noticing this gross lack of care shown everywhere in the state. Surely their duty must call them out on the highways at some time, and if they venture away from a four-track artery of travel they cannot fail to see badly neglected shoulders. Certainly New York motorists pay high enough gasoline taxes to deserve the protection of highways that should not be a menace to their lives every time the wheels swerve off the concrete pavement. In failing to give motorists that measure of protection the officials of the Department are contributing — perhaps unwittingly—to the harvest of death being daily reaped.

It is a good thing to remind motorists that excessive speed, careless driving and intoxication at the wheel helps boost the car death rate. But the Department must not point its finger always at the motorist when the state of New York is allowing danger of death to lurk along the ill-kept shoulders of its highways.

TAX DODGERS and ECONOMY DODGERS

A legitimate campaign against tax dodgers is something that nobody can object to. The unusual part about the present so-called campaign is, Why was action delayed this long if officers of the government knew that tax evasion has been a common practice?

If there are loopholes in our tax laws, surely the Treasury Department could point them out and Congress could correct the situation in short order.

The public might be as much interested in knowing which of our public officials are responsible for permitting tax evasion to continue in the flagrant manner they claim, as it is in the names of the tax evaders.

In the meantime, however, if those who talk about saving pennies for the government from tax evaders, would spend a fraction of the energy and determination in saving billions to the government by enforcing efficiency and economy measures, some worthwhile results could be secured that might save the people of this nation heavy increases in taxes and provide less incentive to tax dodging.

The private- tax dodger and the economy dodging public official will be in the same boat in public esteem before long. The only difference between the two is that the tax dodger may cost hard-pressed taxpayers pennies, while the official economy-dodger costs him millions.

GENEVAN FAVORED

In the course of events before long it is expected that a designation will be made by the Republican party of a candidate for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late honored and revered Justice Robert F. Thompson of Canandaigua.

As is well known the state is divided into different judicial districts. The vacancy that exists is in what is known as the Seventh Judicial district. This is comprised of eight different Western New York counties, Ontario county being one of them. It is confidently expected and generally understood that the candidate to be designated will come from this county.

It is gratifying to Genevans to know that one of this city's prominent citizens and members of the bar, District Attorney N. D. Lapham is being most favorably considered for elevation to the high office. Ontario County is strongly Republican, as are the other counties of the district, so that a nomination or designation for the office would be paramount to an election even in these days when the Democrats have been riding high and handsome in other sections.

Genevans know the high type of man that Mr. Lapham is, as well as the efficient and fearless manner in which he has filled the office of district attorney for the past twenty-one years. They likewise appreciate the fact that by his long legal experience and his knowledge of the law that he is eminently fitted for the position. It goes without saying that his friends here, as well as around the country generally, are eager to see this honor come to him, not only because they believe it would be well deserved, but because they know he would bring to the office talents and abilities as well as a judicial mind and understanding that would make him a most useful member of the court and a zealous servant of the public on the bench.—Geneva Daily Times.

When it was Steuben County's turn to elect a new justice to replace Edwin C. Smith after his resignation, Ontario County stood aside and threw the Republican support to Judge Wheeler. If Mr. Lapham is the choice of Ontario County in the coming election it is certain Steuben County Republicans will rally to his support.

OFFICIALISM OVER ALL

Two of the provisions of the law now pending in Congress proposing the establishment of seven additional regional "electric authorities" of the TVA order, should be known to every citizen who has faith in our democratic system and in honorable government.

The law provides that no person may be appointed as director, administrator or member of one of the authorities "unless he professes belief in the wisdom and feasibility" of the scheme. It provides further that no private utility company, whose business may be appropriated by one of the authorities, may apply for an injunction unless it puts up a bond sufficient to pay all damages suffered by the government or any other interested party in the event the case is decided against the utility.

As Paul Mallon, well known Washington columnist, points out, "By legislative fiat it is proposed to command allegiance to the law and to prevent suits against the law."

This method used widely in Russia, Germany and other dictator-ridden countries to command allegiance to a dictator's will, are openly proposed in the United States! If this bill passes, private property may be confiscated or its value and income depreciated, and the owner will be helpless. Officialism will become his lord and master, politics his daily bread.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, in rejecting the proposal to reorganize the United States Supreme Court, said: "It would subjugate the courts to the will of Congress and the President and thereby destroy the independence of the judiciary, the only certain shield of individual rights."

Finding Out Where the President Stands

Roose[illegible] to Shatter Precedent If [illegible]ps Congress Leaders

By MARK SULLIVAN

REPUBLICAN Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, used the radio to report to his constituents on the state of the nation, the state of politics and the state of Congress. He told the Kansans that some Democratic leaders in Congress are disturbed because they fear Mr. Roosevelt may seize a third term for himself. Mr. Capper further told the Kansans:

"A number of Democratic leaders in Congress right now are trying to wrest control of the party from the White House, if I am any judge of what is going on politically these days."

Senator Capper need not be so modest. He is not only "any judge of what is going on politically." He is one of the very best judges. Few exceed him in ability to judge the trends, and he has a long record of re-elections to prove it. They say in Kansas, with entirely friendly humor, that Senator Capper's ears have been kept to the grassroots so long that the grasshoppers have chewed fringes in them. They say he is the only man in the state who can at one and the same time sit on the fence and keep both ears on the ground. What the Senator says about the situation in the Democratic party can be accepted as accurate. There is under way a struggle for control of the Democratic party.

Another observer states the situation in slightly greater detail. Mr. Turner Catledge, of "The New York Times," an especially diligent and accurate reporter, describes the conflict between the President and some of his leaders in Congress thus:

"There are those among his (President Roosevelt's) advisers who insist that he should . . . use the present opportunity to separate the sheep from the goats and prepare his party to carry on the New Deal after 1940, under him or some one else. Their proposal is that, instead of throwing overboard the controversial items in his legislative program as recommended by his Congressional helmsmen, he jettison the helmsmen themselves. And one of the greatest of the troubles between the President and Congress is the growing belief among some of the leaders, particularly in the Senate, that the President is veering toward this advice."

For the President to jettison Senator Robinson and his other leaders in the Senate and House would be sensational. Presumably he would choose other leaders or spokesmen, and presumably the new men chosen by him would come from the more radical wing of the party. The mere fact of new Presidential spokesmanship in Congress would be startling enough. The fact that it was picked by the President himself would be even more sensational. For ordinarily, indeed almost without exception, the leaders of a party in Congress are chosen by the members. They are elected by party caucus. For Mr. Roosevelt to scuttle that custom would be an immense enlargement of the already huge scrap heap of Democratic traditions and principles. Yet some observers think Mr. Roosevelt will do it. He will hardly be deterred by the fact that it would be unprecedented and startling. The unprecedented and the startling are what Mr. Roosevelt does with the greatest zest. That is what causes the Democrats in Congress to have a sense of uneasiness and apprehension, and causes a sense of tension generally.

Fundamental in all this are the advisers who insist the President should do this. The advisers are not Democrats in Congress—it is hardly necessary to say that. It is safe to assume they are part of the group of the President's intimates, a group little known to the public, who supply him with many of his ideas, especially the novel ones. It is doubtful if they are Democrats. The Democratic party and its future are the last thing they concern themselves with. They don't think in terms of Democratic or Republican, or any other terms that America is familiar with. They are out, in Professor Tugwell's phrase, to "make America over" into something America never saw—except as America has seen something like it in Europe recently. They are not much concerned with President Roosevelt and his future and his place in history. The use they have for the President is such use as they can make of him to bring about the new order.

If a third term for Mr. Roosevelt will help that, they want a third term. If their aims can be better helped by a successor chosen by the President, they want him to choose the successor. But they don't visualize Mr. Roosevelt as the head after the new order is established. He is to be merely the transition President. In this lies the paradox often heard—that Mr. Roosevelt is not going to be a dictator, but that a dictatorship is being brought about.

It is in this light, novel to America, that the struggle of President Roosevelt and the Democratic leaders in Congress for control of the party must be looked at. The present situation is not the ordinary one that often arises in a President's second term. This is no mere case of Congress moving away from a President's leadership because they know he is coming to the end of his tenure of the White house and will have less power to favor them or discipline them. What we are now seeing goes much deeper than that.

A SURPRISE

In Batavia a few weeks ago women employees of the Horowitz shirt factory struck and joined the CIO. They sought an increase in wages and a 40-hour week. When they returned they found their envelopes less than before because of the shorter work week and also the deduction of union dues.

The employees then went to the CIO headquarters according to the reports, and complained. It is said that the CIO officer plainly told them they had gotten what they asked for; that they had signed a contract for a year, and that they would have to abide by it.—Avon Herald-News.

The Reaction Against CIO

By [illegible] LIPP[illegible]

Competent observers in Mic[illegible] and Ohio and Pennsylvania report that for the time being the advance of the C I O has been checked by the resentment of the bystanders. It is said on very good authority that even in the plants where the C. I. O. has had a big success there is much evidence that the new raw unions are finding it difficult to keep their members and collect their dues. In all the industrial centers there is a revolution of feeling and a disposition to organize vigilantes to rout the massed pickets and to prevent the C. I. O. from seizing plants by sitting down in them or by surrounding them with armed mobs.

The behavior of the three Governors confirms these reports. In Ohio the Governor, Mr. Davey, is using the military forces of the state to suppress mass picketing, the tactics by which workers from one plant besiege another. In Pennsylvania the Governor, Mr. Earle, after a most inglorious attempt to shut down the Bethlehem plant, where the C. I. O. has as yet virtually no organization, has beaten a retreat and covered it with a smoke screen about a third term for the President. In Michigan, where at the moment there is no serious strike, the Governor, Mr. Murphy, is about to approve a statute which, in effect, outlaws the mass picketing tactics of the C. I. O. Finally, the President has at last felt the impulse to make some remarks which have the flavor of non-partisanship.

These actions have been taken by public officials whose strong political alliances with labor leaders are tempered only by their sensitiveness to the movements of public opinion. What they have done testifies to the fact that public opinion is on the move.

The reaction now in progress against the C. I. O. has as its spokesmen and symbols men who are fundamentally hostile to all genuine labor unionism and to the realities of collective bargaining. This does not seem to me an unfair or an inaccurate characterization of Mr. Girdler. For though Mr. Girdler now refuses to meet Mr. Lewis, there is no evidence that I know of that he was ever willing to meet and deal with any other labor leader, however well recommended and however carefully fumigated.

I do not think that Mr. Girdler is truly representative of the main body of American public opinion. But Mr. Girdler is winning his battle because the main body of moderate opinion has been compelled to choose between his rather arbitrary methods of continuing to produce steel and the no less arbitrary and much more disorderly tactics of the C. I. O. in their desperate attempt to stop the production of steel. Faced with these alternatives, a middle-class democracy, like the American democracy, will inevitably throw its support to the party which does at least promise to keep the community a going concern.

If in the high command of the Democratic party there are men of sagacity, surely they must see what all this portends. It means that the New Deal labor policy is so misconceived that unless it is revised the hopes of labor will be dashed in a deep and dangerous reaction.

The essential misconception of the New Deal labor policy lies in a failure to distinguish between agitation and government. The President and Senator Wagner have taken the wholly mistaken view that the power of government can be used to promote the organization and the solidarity of labor. They have therefore, sponsored laws which invite the union organizer to proceed after promising him that the [illegible] will paralyze the employer [illegible]es him. The most [illegible] the Wagner act is [illegible] organized employers and [illegible] unorganized workers. But the [illegible]nce of the Wagner act is an attempt to promote a forced growth of unionism in the hothouse of the Federal power.

It is in many ways an historical curiosity. For while we have seen in other countries many governments raised to power and supported by organized labor, we have never before seen a government which has sought to create the labor movement it would like to represent.

Yet this is what is being attempted. The social philosophy of the dominant New Dealers envisages a transformation of the Democratic party in which voting strength and political influence will lie in a combination of subsidized farmers and organized industrial workers. They think of themselves as the leaders of a radical farmer-labor party. But in this country there is no labor party for them to lead. And so, having sublime confidence in the power of government to do anything, they have set out to create a labor movement by the use of the power of government.

In order to do this they have had to sacrifice even the appearance of even-handed enforcement of the law. As a result, in the troubled communities particularly, but also throughout the land, they are producing the conviction that public authority is neither impartial nor strong. This is an incitement to all the irresponsible, unstable and mischievous careerists who are out to exploit labor for their personal power or their ideological ends, and the behavior of these people necessarily provokes the bystanders to use lawless means to re-establish order.

For when government repudiates its obligations to be impartial and abdicates its authority in the midst of lawlessness there is no legitimate standard to which the sober citizens of the community can repair. They are left to choose between the devil and the deep blue sea.

The remedy for this condition is to have the government affirm its obligations. The President's remarks at his press conference on Tuesday, while they pointed in the right direction, were altogether too casual and too ambiguous to meet the needs of the situation. If there is statesman-like instinct in this government the Administration will promptly take decisive steps to stop the moral rot which is degenerating into a class war. It will not only have to speak more plainly and fully, but it will have to recognize that the Wagner act must be supplemented so that it ceases to be an instrument of one faction and becomes in truth what it professes to be, a charter of industrial peace in which all the rights of all concerned are safeguarded.

I know, because I have made inquiries which are completely convincing, that all but the lunatic fringe among the New Dealers recognize that the Wagner act must be supplemented. In private that is admitted. Why is it not done? It is not done because they are afraid to do what they know they ought to do. Yet if they had wisdom, they would have courage, and would know that if they do not rewrite the law voluntarily, it will be rewritten for them by some means or other.

National Birthdays

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

The United States has been described as "the only great country with a known birthday."

Many Americans undoubtedly recalled that famous statement as they participated in recent Independence Day celebrations throughout the nation.

And many probably wondered whether America, as a nation, was indulging on its anniversary in that bit of self-study and self-searching which a birthday usually inspires.

Certainly July Fourth offered a splendid opportunity for America to compare its national spirit today with the hopes and the aspirations of its founders.

Does the spirit of liberty, we could ask ourselves, glow as brightly in our own hearts as it did in the breasts of the men who in 1776 pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to its perpetuation?

Does a sense of personal responsibility for government still animate our citizens as it did those who made sacrifice after sacrifice, first to win, and then to build, a nation?

Does the fierce pride in democracy—in government by the people—still dominate our citizens' thought as it did the generation which faced death and privation rather than suffer despotic rule?

Those were the aims of our nation in its earliest youth. Are they still the dominant ideas of that nation on its more mature birthdays? Are we still fighting to preserve those high ideals?

If the answer is "Yes," then we can continue to count our birthdays with pride. If it is "No," then we are in the tragic situation of the man who wistfully recalls the dreams of his youth, only to realize how he has fallen short of all their splendid aspirations.

gets, for church repairs and for parsonage improvement. Also these societies have been the medium of fine fellowship among the ladies of the churches throughout the year.

"The young people at Addison have been meeting two Sundays a month under the name of the Epworth League with Wilbur Bulkley as president; on two Mondays a month also the young people meet under the name of the Triple V with Miss Betty Pepper as president. The three Vs standing for the three Latin words Via, Vera, Vita, meaning the way, the truth, the life, and meant to include a wider range of youth and young people than the Epworth League. Interesting and helpful topics have been dealt with and discussed by the young people of both groups, and a fine fellowship has been developed and maintained through these gatherings.

"The young people at Rathbone meet twice a month under the name of the Rathbone Guild with Florence Preston as president. These meetings have been quite well attended, and a high degree of interest has been maintained in them, and by fees and socials and a play considerable funds have been raised for the church and world service interests.

"At Addison the Standard Bearer Girls, some 16 in number with Mrs. George Dininny as counsellor, have been meeting once a month for study of missionary topics and for fellowship. They are expected to receive a 100% rating from the central office of the district. They have helped toward the Million Unit Fellowship and are now making plans for six or eight to go to Silver Lake summer school. The district banquet was held at Addison this year with about 110 in attendance.

"The Philathea Class, the Blakeslee Class and the Men's Class beside their regular Sunday gatherings as units of the Sunday school, also meet once a month on a week day evening for study, devotion and fellowship. In these gatherings fine fellowship has been fostered and considerable funds have been raised by each of these classes. The Men's Class presented the play 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' with Mr. Kenneth McCaig as director. This play netted the class for the church around $75. The Blakeslee and Philathea Classes have raised considerable funds thru their suppers and class collections and have aided greatly in the various financial obligations of the church.

"Prayer meetings have been held on Wednesday evenings but the numbers in attendance have not been at all large. Yet not without rich spiritual value to those of us who did attend.

"The first three Sunday evenings of each month this church has joined with the Presbyterians and Baptists in a united service. These services have been quite well attended and a splendid feeling of cooperation has been evidenced throughout the year.

"The Official Board of the church has met once a month and the Sunday School Board two or three times during the year. These meetings have been well attended and a deep interest in the enrichment of church life has been experienced by a loyal representative group.

"The total membership of the Addison Church is 236. About 30 of these are non-resident or inactive. At Easter three were received into the membership of the church. Two were received into the Rathbone church. The past records of the Rathbone and Orr Hill churches have been poorly kept and little information is available concerning the past of these churches. Now new books have been provided and each church has a set of two books for the recording of membership and of historical permanent data. It is hoped that these books may be kept up to date in all matters of interest and importance.

"On the Addison church building some repairs have been done at a cost of about $40. At the Rathbone Church new cement steps have replaced the old wooden ones at the entrance to the church.

"The renovations and improvements on the parsonage have cost in cash about $750 and about $350 more in labor value and things donated. All bills on the parsonage have been paid. It is a much improved dwelling. The Orr Hill Church contributed $10 and the Rathbone Church $5 toward these improvements.

"The World Service program of the church was launched in February and all units asked for have been pledged by individuals or societies of the churches. About $175 has been received for the World Service fund to date. Also the W. F. M. S. have sent some $25 to their central office.

"A new society has been formed this year for the special purpose of mission study and fellowship. We meet once a month in one of the homes, and is open to all men and women and young people of missionary interests. These gatherings have aided considerably in stimulating an interest in world service interests.

"In the matter of finance the Rathbone Church takes the lead with 75% of the year gone they have paid about 70% of the year's obligations and interests, with a considerable sum on hand to be distributed later. The Addison Church with 75% of the year over has raised about 65% of its budget. The Orr Hill Church with 75% of the year over has raised about 40% of its budget. In all three churches there is a very hopeful attitude and the belief is widely expressed that when the year closes the report will show 100% in all matters of finance.

Church Officers

Officers of the church were elected on a report of the nominating committee. The members of this committee are: Mrs. George L. Smith, Clark Baxter, Frank Carpenter, Mrs. Benjamin Thompson and Rev. Noticed some of the collegians home from vacation around the town these days. It seemed to me that the ones who have been in college the shortest time were the most collegiate and uppity. They will get over that before they leave college or it will surely be knocked out of them when they go to work. I know it was knocked out of me.

I'm going to repeat what I said about going swimming. Always have someone with you and never go after a hearty meal.

—o—

Some of the school kids are bored to death already with their vacations and wishing for something to do.

—o—

A lamb has been adopted by Peggy Knebel for a pet. She puts a collar on "Duke" and a lead to take him about the town. She states it is hard to get him to go places, but he always seems to know when he is going home.

—o—

The opening days of July proved about as cold as any of the days we have had this spring in Addison and vicinity. I know in our house we have been using blankets just as tho it was in the month of March or April. And the days were pretty cold too for I did not see too many people running around in flimsy clothing.

I hope none of our readers were numbered among the many injured over the holiday week-end. I sure hate to read a newspaper the day after one of these holidays, always afraid I'll read of some friends either injured or dead. It has happened.

—o—

I wish some Erie railroad engineers would be more considerate of motor and pedestrian traffic here. Many times long freight trains block both crossings while shifting is done when it would only take a few minutes to break the train for traffic. At other times long passenger trains have just half a car blocking the crossing when to pull ahead that half car would leave the crossing clear.

Some young boys in this village might learn the points of a Scout law which says "A Scout is Thrifty, He does not wantonly destroy property, He works faithfully, wastes nothing, etc". For some of the local youths are destroying flower beds and have robbed fish from open air ponds. Breaking windows is damaging that which belongs to another.

—o—

I was handed an old prohibition lecture the other day which was printed at the time of the Civil War. It was written for soldiers and pointed out the evils of drink. Arguments then in use are still being used to try to keep men from drinking. This copy occupied 20 pages of a pamphlet. Incidentally it opposes some religious beliefs and their attitude towards drinking.

The suggestion has been made that the flags on display by local merchants get a good cleaning before they are brought out again Labor Day. No, the suggestion did not come from the cleaners.

—o—

Some people are still buying seeds for their home gardens. They say their gardens were washed out in the recent rains.

—o—

I wonder what some of the local young ladies are doing these moonlight nights with their young swains transferred to CCC camps in other communities.

—o—

Addison sure has some wonderful looking gardens. They are colorful, plentiful and sweet scented. It is a pleasure to stroll about the streets and notice the care with which these gardens are grown and nurtured. I hope mischievous youngsters and souvenir collecting adults will leave them alone.

—o—

It would be great if every week-end could be as free from accidents in Addison and Woodhull as was the holiday week-end. They can be made so with care by you and me as drivers and pedestrians.

—o—

I'm beginning to wonder if there are any fish in the Canisteo River. Twice last week embryo fishemen promised me a meal of fish and twice I was disappointed. Rudy Wade and Tank Edwards promised me fish which did not materialize. And Harry Laffkas, who did not promise me any, caught six in half an hour, and admits catching two on one tonie.

—o—

Some upstate company was visiting at our house over the week-end and I mentioned about the heavy fog here. I was asked if that was what was the matter with me.

—o—

Congratulations are due to the people of this vicinity, or they are lucky. There were no major motor mishaps here nor were there severe burns from fireworks reported.

—o—

There has been a great deal of interest shown in the fate of Amelia Earhart Putnam, American aviatrix whose plane came down in mid Pacific Friday, July 2. All radio reports were listened to eagerly here.

—o—

How many of you know that 20 scheduled passenger planes fly over Addison and vicinity each day?

—o—

That's all.

—The Rambler.

Hen Culling Service Farm Bureau Offers

The poultry culling service provided annually by the farm bureau will be available early in July, will be concluded by August 15.

Early culling is recommended this year for the reason that feed is high, and a substantial savings will be realized in the immediate elimination of non-layers.

The number of pullets being raised this year is comparatively small and for that reason it would appear to be profitable to carry over yearlings that are good producers, rather than dispose of the entire flock as is often done.

The culling service is available to all farmers and poultry keepers at a nominal fee. Request for the service should be made immediately at the farm bureau office at Bath, and should state the number of hens to be handled.

Home Bureau Officers Plan Fall Program

At a meeting of Addison Home Bureau officers and leaders at the home of Mrs. C. L. Moyer, June 30, program planning was continued.

Among the 1937-38 plans to be started in the fall are: Beginners sewing class, kitchen conferences, splint and cane chair seating; good grooming to include care of hands and feet; foods and nutrition, to include formal teas, bridge luncheons and table decorations; gardening, recreation, health, kitchen mechanics and clothes closets.

Present at the meeting were: Mrs. Lois Mathewson, Bath, county agent; Mrs. C. L. Moyer, chairman; Mrs. Elroy Hannahs, gardening leader; Mrs. R. L. Whitford and Mrs. Robert Magoon, food and nutrition leaders.

A Priceless Memory Picture

In all of our services we take the necessary steps to create a Memory Picture which forever tends to console those loved ones left behind. Every service is so directed as to reflect beauty, a happier life in the Hereafter. We realize that the sentiment involved in a funeral service is precious and our every act is guided by that thought.

Trial Delayed in Bath Murder Case

Madestro Rodrigues and George Troop are being held by Steuben County authorities after their indictments in the death of Edward Gleason, who died as a result of wounds received in a fracas at Salubria Inn, Bath, June 19. Both men denied their guilt when arraigned during the past week. Harold Percival and William Creveling were stabbed, supposedly by the defendants at the same time. Owing to the death of Supreme Court Justice Clyde W. Knapp, the preliminary hearings have been postponed.

Addison Teacher Married July 4th

Miss Alice Janette Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey of West Hartford, Conn., was united in marriage July 4, to Gerald William Breese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Breese of Elmira. The bride is English teacher and librarian in Addison High School.

The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents by Dr. Douglas MacIntosh, Professor of Systematic Theology at Yale Divinity School. Mrs. Hugh Keenan of Corning was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jennie Souers of New Philadelphia, O. and Miss Martha Littleton of Corning. Betty Ann Lyle of West Hartford was flower girl. The groom's attendants were Dr. Hugh Keenan of Corning, best man, Cecil Jones of Delaware, O., and Frank Dailey of West Hartford, ushers.

The bride wore a pink dress with train and veil, and carried a bouquet of pink roses with white snapdragons and a touch of blue. The house was decorated with white gladiolas, yellow daisies, and vases of delphinium and yellow snap dragons. A ribboned aisle led to the mantle covered with huckle berry vines where the vows were taken. Following the wedding supper was served to 70 guests.

Mrs. Breese graduated from Ohio Wesleyan, being a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority. Mr. Breese graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1935 and will finish in Yale Graduate School in 1938. Following the wedding supper the couple went to New Haven, Conn. to make their temporary home where Mr. Breese is employed for the summer. Mrs. Breese plans to teach one more year in Addison High School.

The new Yorkwin wheat will receive a thorough test on New York farms this season. Estimates made last fall indicate that enough seed was available to sow about 2,000 acres.

Telephone Bills Must Be Paid By 25th of Each Month

Owing to requirements of the state law, patrons of the Addison Home Telephone Company must pay their bills before the 25 of each month hereafter. The company is to be taxed for all unpaid bills and officials of the organization feel they cannot pay this from their monthly revenues.

They have issued a statement announcing that after July 1, all bills not paid by the 25 will mean the subscriber will have his or her phone removed. They regret having to adopt this policy in view of the fact many of their clients do not pay monthly, but feel they have to conform with state mandates.

A total of 111 dairy herd improvement associations in New York state now keep monthly records of feed and milk and butterfat production of 65,460 cows owned by 2,722 association members.

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the office of information of the New York State college of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the college. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one past card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Candied Fruit Peel

Mrs. F. H., writes: With oranges and grapefruit plentiful, I would like to know how to make candied orange and grapefruit peel."

The New York State College of Home Economics gives the following dorections:

"Cut oranges, lemons or grapefruit in half, and scoop out the pulp; retain the peels in halves or in strips for candying. The halves of grapefruit may be dried over a milk bottle to aid in retaining the shape. Cover the peel with cold water, bring to a boil and drain. Repeat this process six or seven times to remove the bitterness and to modify the texture of the fruit so that it will absorb the sirup without shriveling.

"For each pound of peel, make a sirup of 2 cups of sugar, 2 tablespoons of corn sirup and 2 cups of water. The sirup should cover the peel without crowding it in the kettle. Boil the peel in the sirup until white spots form on the peel and the peel is clear, then let it stand in the sirup overnight.

"Reheat the mixture, then remove the peel, drain it, roll it while warm in granulated sugar, and place, skin side down, on a plate or a cake rack to dry. Afterwards, keep the peel between layers of waxed paper in a tightly covered tin box.

"The relatively large amount of sirup remaining after candying fruit may be used to candy other fruit, or to make fruit ices, candy and sirup sauces."

Knotty Apples

R. B. F. wants to know why his his apples are knotty.

Dr. R. W. Leiby of the entomology department replies: "The condition of the apples is very probably caused by the feeding of several kinds of insects, but especially by one of the apple aphids.

"A copy of Cornell bulletin E-314 has been sent to you. This gives control recommendations and a spraying schedule."

Here and There WITH THE HEALTH REPORTER

Calisthenics in Reducing

TODAY'S series of calisthenics is an important part of your reducing regimen; it will help prevent sagging, flabby flesh and loose skin.

The chief purpose of calisthenics is to exercise the muscles at least once each day and in the same order. If you are unused to exercise, begin slowly at first, practicing each movement only two or three times. As your muscles become firmer, increase the number of repetitions to twenty or more each.

1. Bend body at hips, place fists at knees—throw arms out and backward as far as possible while inhaling, and exhale while returning to position.

2. Rotate shoulders — inhale, raising shoulders; exhale, lowering shoulders.

3. Clasp hands behind back—throw chest out and upward, shoulders back, and inhale; throw shoulders forward and exhale.

4. Bending exercise. Keeping the knees stiff, lower the hands to the floor and return to chest.

5. Feet as far apart as possible, keeping knees stiff, bend the body from side to side, raising the arms alternately over the head.

6. Woodchopping exercise. Spread the feet about eighteen inches apart, and swing the arms and trunk, exaggerating the motion of chopping.

7. Lying on back, with arms at side—raise chin to chest and push hands along limbs, then relax to original position.

8. Throw the body into a sitting position, keeping knees and feet on the floor.

9. Draw both knees back to the chest and return to the floor.

10. Raise both legs from the floor at the same time, keeping knees stiff, then return to starting position.

Water Lines Develop Leak in Main Street

The water pipe feeding the east side of Main street sprung a leak over the holiday week-end. Pressure on the village mains dropped and water in the reservoir was lowered by the leak. Elbert Crane, superintendent of the water works, secured a pneumatic hammer from the Ingersoll-Rand Company and three operators to tear through the pavement in front of the Frost store where it was determined the leak was located.

It is not known at this time whether the leak is in the street main or in the feeder line for the building.

STORY OF ASTRONOMY FOR BOY SCOUTS

The planet Neptune is about a hundred times the size of the earth. Besides the smaller planets, there are eight great ones, with their moons, which revolve around our sun. If all these were crushed into one mass, it would need to be multiplied by 750 to be equal in size to the sun. If the sun were an empty shell it would require 1,300,000 earths like our to fill the sun. If our earth were placed in the center of the sun, and the moon to revolve around it at its actual distance from the earth, about 239,000 miles, it would still be 200,000 below the surface of the sun. It would take 600,000 full moons to make a day as bright as one of cloudless sunshine. Sun power keeps the earth in motion. The earth revolves on its axis at the equator at a rate of over a thousand miles per hour. It travels around the sun once in 365.2564 days. During that time we travel, on account of the daily revolutions of the earth, about 9,760,000 miles; if we add to this 600,000,000 miles which we travel on account of the earth's yearly trip around the sun, and add to this the motion of the sun and the earth toward a point near the star Vega, 150,000,000 miles, we find that in one year we travel a distance of about 759,760,000 miles. A little trip around the earth would cost us a little fortune, but we get this magnificent trip through the heavens, and it never costs us a cent. There never yet was a watch made that would keep perfect time for a whole year, but God has made this great solar system so that it does not lose or gain a second in a thousand years.

Just as our earth is small and dim among the planets, so our sun is small and dim among the great suns of the universe. Going out into space, the first star we meet, Centauri, gives out four times as much light as our sun. Vega gives forty times as much light: Arcturus gives two hundred times as much light as our sun, and the depths of space are strewn with millions more suns too far away to be accurately observed. "And the heavens shall praise they wonders, O Lord; thy faithfulness also in the congregation of the saints". Psa. 89:5

Steuben Poultrymen Visit Cornell Monday

Steuben poultrymen will visit the College of Agriculture Monday, July 12, to study the investigations that are being carried on there in nutrition and breeding, of disease eradication and control and many other research problems.

The trip which is sponsored by the poultry committee of the farm bureau, aims to familiarize Steuben poultry farmers with the extensive program of the Poultry Department at Cornell, and to present current information of the problems of poultry production.

Several staff members including Dr. Hutt, poultry department director, will appear on the program. In the forenoon the group will meet in the auditorium of the poultry building and will inspect the brooder and laying houses of the department.

The experimental farm of the veterinary college where extensive research is being carried on in the control of parasites and paralysis will be visited in the afternoon.

E. W. Croft, chairman of the poultry committee, extends cordial invitation to all interested parties to attend the event. The entire family is invited he says, and those who come are to take a basket lunch.

The party will assemble at the poultry building at 9:30, and the program will begin promptly at that hour.

Stage Plays Presented for Public at Cornell U

Lovers of the legitimate drama will be interested in the announcement that Cornell University will give a series of plays each Friday and Saturday night for five weeks beginning July 9 and 10. The plays will be presented in the Willard Straight auditorium. The opening nights will find Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Ernest" on the program and the following Luigi Pirandello's unique play "Six Characters in Search of An Author" will be presented.

The danger in waiting for something to happen is that it is likely to happen to you.

Dairy Sire Show At Field Day

Continued progress is reported with plans for Western New York's first field day at the Batavia fairgrounds, July 31. As an educational event, it is expected to supplement in a "big way" the dairy programs of the county farm bureaus and to call to the attention of thousands of residents and farmers the importance of dairying in this section of the state.

One of the features, a dairy sire show, is receiving special attention, reports Howard Paine of Clarence, Erie County, who is chairman of this committee, and C. F. Crowe, assistant county agent of Erie, who is secretary.

Other members of that committee have been chosen from each Western New York county and have drawn up both health and production requirements for sires to be shown. The requirements include:

1 .All bulls must come from herds approved for Bang's Disease, or from herds that have had a negative test for one year, or the bull shall have passed a negative test within 30 days of the show.

2. No age requirement is placed on a sire coming from either an approved or a negative herd. All others must be six months of age or older.

3. It is recommended that all bulls consigned to the show be from dams with a 400-pounds butterfat record.

4. A small entry fee is charged, and a catalog made to be circularized throughout the state.

In general charge of arrangements for the entire show is this committee: T. D. Richards of Perry, chairman; H. B. Wilson of Caledonia, secretary; and Norman Henning of Stafford, treasurer.

Buildings of the shed roof type heat quickly from the sun's rays. Placing a ceiling of wall board with the openings left between the rafters at the back and front of the building will help to carry off some of this heat.

Heat prostration may be caused by one or more of the conditions mentioned. Full grown birds may be overcome and killed by the heat in a few hours unless something is done to relieve them.

Rules Changed on CCC Enlistments

I have just received communication from the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration that there have been some important changes in the selection of enrollees for the Civilian Conservation Corps, as follows:

1. The new regulation concerning eligibility reads "unemployed and in need of employment". Advices from Washington stipulates that boys from relief families must be given priority.

2. The allotment requirement is amended. Where the boys enrolled have dependents, it is mandatory that allotments be made to families. Allotments of boys without dependents must be deposited with the Finance Officer.

3. The age limits have been changed. They were formerly 17 to 28 years, and now are 17 to 23 years, inclusive.

4. Also the maximum length of service will be for two years. This means that no boy who has already been in CCC Camp and has served more than 18 months can be reselected.

Under the new regulations it will be possible to select some boys from non-relief families. It is most important that so far as possible, quotas will be filled from relief and WPA families as in the past. The next group to be considered prior to consideration given non-relief cases, is that group of relief boys who heretofore have been ineligible because they lacked dependents to whom they could make allotments. Any vacancies in excess of those which can be filled from these two groups, are to be filled from the non-relief classification.

The State Selection Office will make up quotas for both relief and non-relief groups. The relief quotas will be based on reports submitted to the Rochester TERA Office of the relief boys available. Non-relief quotas will be granted over and above that, on an equitable basis.

We have been advised that although the CCC bill has been passed and signed by the President, because of a delay in passing the CCC appropriation bill, the July enrollment period is temporarily suspended. Changes in regulations which are enumerated herewith will be effective for the next enrollment period. Just as soon as the money is appropriated the actual enrolling in camps will begin.

Door to door and store to store

Milk and its products do not sell themselves. They must be sold — from door to door and from store to store. Only by aggressive salesmanship can millions of pounds of milk from thousands of dairy farms be sold day after day, year after year.

In the complicated business of bridging the long distance from cow to consumer, Borden is expert. Vital to the income of the dairy farmer, are the tens of thousands of calls made by Borden men in this and foreign lands, every day selling milk and milk products—door to door and store to store.

Rain and Help Shortage Handicap Farmers

The labor shortage is giving many farmers concern, according to a statement issued today by Aaron Putnam, President of the Steuben County Farm Bureau.

The situation is made worse because of the extremely wet weather which delayed planting, and has made impossible the cultivation of rowed crops.

Farmers are now in the midst of the busiest season they have had in years. Additional hands are urgently needed by many farmers, Mr. Putnam states.

Men and older boys who have had experience in farm work and want employment are urged to apply at the farm bureau office at Bath.

Except for air, water is the most common, most readily supplied, and often the most inexpensive substance that poultrymen can give to their hens, and yet the supply is often neglected.

Miss Ruth Manning Bride of Oakfield Man

The marriage of Miss Ruth Manning, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Manning of Wilson, N. Y., former residents of Addison, to Adolph G. Reitz of Oakfield was solemnized Saturday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilson. The altar was beautifully decorated with baskets of roses, madonna lilies and delphinium.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father with the Rev. J. T. Hough of North Ridge assisting in the service.

The bride was charming in an aquamarine silk ensemble with Quaker bonnet to match. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and gypsophilia. Her maid of honor, Miss Olive Johnson of Pittsburgh, a college friend, wore a rose ensemble, her corsage being yellow rose buds and gypsophila.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents to about seventy-five guests, Mrs. George L. Smith of Front street being among them.

Upon their return from a two weeks' motor trip to Thousand Islands and the Adirondack region Mr. and Mrs. Reitz will reside in Oakfield where the groom holds a responsible position as chemist in the U. S. Gypsum plant.

The bride is a graduate of Keuka College and Geneseo Normal School and has taught in the Gasport school the past year. The groom is a graduate of Alfred University.

Addison Trims Westfield At Softball 9 to 6

The Addison Softball team defeated the Westfield nine in a game played here Tuesday night. The score was 9 to 6. The locals piled up a six-run lead on seven hits in the first inning when 12 men batted. Addison scored 9 runs on 16 hits and the visitors scored six runs on seven hits. Batteries for the winners were Grange and Heidrick and for the losers Norton, McMinn and Sama.

The horse's collar should be thoroughly cleaned each evening after the day's work is done.

Wanda Stewart is Bride of Raymond Young

One of the prettiest weddings of the summer occurred Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, Catherine Creek road, when their only daughter, Wanda, was united in marriage to Raymond Young of Borden.

The bridal party, led by little Marcia Anne Strait as flower girl, entered the living room as Arlene and Lenora Young, nieces of the groom, sang "O Promise Me". Next after the flower girl came Wilbor Hannahs, as best man and Miss Jeannette Dykins as maid of honor, the bride and groom completing the procession. Taking their places beneath an arch of laurel with a back ground of pink and white roses, the Rev. John V. Axtell pronounced the words that made them one.

The bride was lovely in a gown of tea rose chiffon with white accessories; she carried an arm bouquet of white rose buds and gypsophila.

Her maid of honor was attractively gowned in blue chiffon with white accessories, her arm bouquet was of pink rosebuds. The tiny flower girl was dressed in white and carried a basket of pink and white rose buds in which the ring was concealed.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served. A pleasing color scheme of pink and white was carried out at the table with rose shaped mint baskets as favors.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Young of Borden, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Young, daughters Arlene and Lenora of Hammondsport, the Rev. and Mrs. John V. Axtell, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Stewart, Mrs. Julia Stewart, members of the wedding party and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart.

The happy couple left shortly after for a motor trip, the bride wearing a white suit and accessories for going away.

Mr. and Mrs. Young are popular young people and have the good wishes of their many friends in Addison and vicinity. Both are graduates of AHS. Mrs. Young being a member of the class of '33 while Mr. Young was graduated in 1930. He is also a graduate of Addison Training Class and of Meekers Business Institute in Elmira.

They will reside near Borden where Mr. Young is engaged in agriculture.

Attorney Clyde Shults Seeks Convention Post

At the urgent request of many influential citizens of Ontario, Steuben and Yates counties, Clyde E. Shults, prominent Hornell attorney, has announced his candidacy, at the Republican primary in September, as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

Mr. Shults is a former president of the Steuben County Bar Association and well known throughout western New York, as an able lawyer.

He was persuaded to announce his candidacy only at the insistence of many party leaders, who believe that his very successful record, during thirty-eight years of practice at the Bar of the State of New York, makes him particularly well qualified to represent this Senatorial district, at the constitutional convention.

Mr. Shults has been a life-long Republican and for twenty-seven years was secretary and General Manager of the Great Hornell Fair.

He is senior member of the law firm of Shults & Shults, at Hornell, composed of himself, and his two sons, C. Everett Shults and Sherman B. Shults.

Southern Tier Flood Control Needs $5,000,000

Engineers are asking for an appropriation of $5,000,000 to complete the flood control projects in Southern New York. The control program will include work from Hornell east to Elmira and vicinity. It is planned to deepen the Canisteo river in many places, take curves out of the swift flowing streams tributary to that river and plan a series of dikes where necessary.

CLASS PICNIC

Members of the Sunday School class of Mrs. Garland G. Lacey held a picnic on the Methodist parsonage lawn Friday afternoon. The picnic took the form of a weiner and marshmallow roast. At the conclusion of the picnic proper the young people played games.
